Additional Tourist Traffic Wanted On Eastern Lake Side

MOVEMENT LAUNCHED BY SUTTON BOARD OF TRADE MEN

SEEK NEWMARKET HELP

Originating in Sutton, a movement is on foot to organize an association to put northern York county and the eastern side of Lake Simcoe on the tourist map.

The Sutton board of trade is said to be behind the movement, and will endeavor to enlist the support of all municipalities from Newmarket to Beaverton and perhaps further north and east.

Stephen Sellers, Jackson's Point, and John Sibbald, Jackson's Point, are among the leading spirits in this move.

The idea is to popularize the eastern route to Muskoka and to emphasize the attractions of the southern and eastern side of Lake Simcoe and Haliburton as a summer playground.

It is impossible to over-estimate the value of advertising of a municipality through the passage of even the non-stopping cars, The Era was told.

The association would endeavor to raise $1,000 to erect 50-foot signs at Eagle and Yonge Sts., Newmarket, and in Orillia, indicating the eastern route, and for direction and route signs along the way.

The Era office will be open on Saturdays from 2 to 5 p.m., but not on Saturday evenings.

ALEX. EVES RETIRES

An impressive story of public service during the past year was related by Alex. Eves, retiring president, at the annual charter night of the Newmarket Lions club Monday evening.

The charter night, when wives of the members were guests of honor, was held at the Big Bay Point hotel operated by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Grant, formerly of Keswick. It is situated on Lake Simcoe a few miles south of Barrie. About 100 persons were present.

Work of the club outlined by Mr. Eves included 22 dental cases, two pairs of glasses repaired, six pairs of glasses provided, 14 trips to the Hospital for Sick Children, 19 tons of cases, two provided with athletic supplies for school, three sets of books for high school, one child provided with shoes, donations made to Children's Welfare, Newmarket, Santa Claus parade, boys' grain club, Salvation Army, Hospital for Sick Children, room at hotel for two transients, 65 bottles of cod liver oil, Halloween party arranged for children, artificial eye to a man, planted trees at Lions park, provided groceries and milk to a destitute family, 28 quarts of milk provided for under-

All parents, and those interested in these phases of educational work, are cordially invited to be present.

COUNCIL HELPS WITH LIONS PARK PROJECT

The town council's approval for the expenditure of $60 as two-thirds of the cost of cleaning out the ditch at the south side of the Lions club park was obtained by Councillor Frank Bowser at a town council meeting on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Bowser is chairman of the Lions club park committee.

"The Lions club park is going to be a beauty spot some day," he said. "I understand that the ditch is a town responsibility. Our ground ends with the row of trees. We want to fix it up so that the water will run out in the spring, and make it pleasing to the eye. The Lions club is ready to go one-third of the cost. We will pay for one man, if the town will pay for two."

"There is no doubt but that the Lions club is making a great improvement down there," said N. L. Mathews, K. C., clerk and solicitor. "That was a breeding ground for mosquitoes."

Mr. Bowser and his committee have done wonderful work over there," said Reeve F. A. Lundy. "All he wants is that the council gives its backing."

OLD GIRLS' TEA WILL BE HELD JUNE 30

On Friday afternoon, June 30, all the "old girls," home for the reunion, will be the guests of the local ladies at the home of Mrs. W. L. Bosworth, North Main St. Afternoon tea will be served from 3 to 5.30 p.m. All the ladies of the town are invited to have an afternoon chat with their former school friends.

Old Boy Would Restore Historic Eagle St. Cemetery

DINNER FOR OLD-TIMERS
AT REUNION SUGGESTED BY VISITOR

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Johnson, Toronto, were visiting friends in Newmarket yesterday. They will be back for the reunion.

Mr. Johnson is the son of the late Jacob Johnson, Queen St., the contractor who built the Christian church. Mr. Johnson, who was just a small boy then, remembers his father taking him to the top of the steeple, and he remembers his father standing with his feet on the two cross-arms.

He recalled that the Brooks Wakefield family gave the money for the church.

Mr. Johnson's father, in addition to being a busy builder, had a small factory on Queen St., where he made fanning-mills. "Two rigs used to go out into the country every Monday and Thursday to sell the fanning-mills," Mr. Johnson recalled.

Mr. Johnson's father sold out and moved to Bracebridge when Mr. Johnson was 18. He is now 74 and there are not many Newmarket people he knows. He mentioned Dr. J. H. Wesley, Tom Watson, Al Binns, Bob Manning, Charles Lewis and Fred Hartley.

He recalled attending the district school under Mr. Rennie. That was where Alexander Muir school now stands.

"The Methodist church and the school were on the same grounds," he said. "The Methodist cemetery was there too. The cemetery was moved to the union cemetery, and school was closed three days while they were moving it."

"The Anglican cemetery on Eagle St. should be moved too, or fixed up," said Mr. Johnson. "There are lots of the old boys who wouldn't mind going in there and helping to fix the stones up."

Mr. Johnson didn't go to school under Alexander Muir, but he recalled that the composer of the Maple Leaf Forever was a great quiet player. "They used to play at the exhibition park. I remember shining up his quills. He used to like that."

He also recalled the occasion when Lord Dufferin laid the corner-stone of the Christian church. "There were arches built all through the town," he said.

Mr. Johnson suggested that a dinner should be arranged when the old-timers could get together at the reunion and recall the days that are gone.

NEWMARKET BANDS SEEK HONORS AT WATERLOO, J. O. LITTLE LENDS A HAND

Both Newmarket bands will compete in the Waterloo Music Festival on Saturday. A competition under the chairmanship of J. O. Little is looking after transportation. Mr. Little presided the town council on Tuesday evening to vote $60 to pay for the gasoline to and from Waterloo. Private individuals will lend their cars.

The R.S.A. Bugle Band will compete in three different classes in their first visit to Waterloo. In addition, individual members of the band are entered in drum and bugle classes.

DANCE FLOOR LAID FOR DANCE TONIGHT

Considerable interest has been exhibited in the hardwood floor laid at the fair grounds this week in preparation for the reunion jitney dance this evening.

Building the floor in sections and laying it at the fair grounds is a novel idea. The jitney dance is new in Newmarket too. There is no admission charge. Dancers just pay for each dance. It is expected to draw a good crowd.

SOME ARE CRITICALLY ILL FOLLOWING MEASLES

The measles epidemic is not over yet, Dr. J. H. Wesley, M. O. H., stated this week. Some sore throat cases have followed in the wake of the epidemic and two or three children are critically ill, he said. Those who have treated the disease lightly and have been careless about observing quarantine regulations have been very foolish, he added. The utmost care should still be observed, he said.

QUEENSVILLE GIRL WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Dorothy White, of Queensville, formerly of Newmarket high school, graduated from Macdonald Institute, Guelph, on Friday, June 16. She won an alumnae scholarship, which is awarded to the student obtaining the highest standing in her course in the two years of Home Economics.

RADIAL PUTS UP COACH LINE RATES

Why should coach line rates from Newmarket to Toronto return be $1.60, when they are only $1.10 from Brampton to Toronto return, asked Councillor A. V. Higginson at the town council meeting Tuesday evening.

He had been asked, he said, to raise the question, and see if Aurora would not join with Newmarket to ask a hearing before the municipal and railway board.

"The reason is that the coaches are not allowed to pick up passengers between Richmond Hill and the city," said Reeve F. A. Lundy. "When the radial tracks come up, the rates will be revised."

"That is a satisfactory explanation," said Mr. Higginson.

ENJOY TOUR

Following the business session, delegates to Toronto Centre North presbytery of the United church on Tuesday enjoyed a motor tour of the town and district, arranged by Rev. R. R. McMath, pastor of Trinity United. Points visited included the schools, factories, churches, Salvation Army barracks which were built as a Methodist Episcopal church in 1874, which united with Trinity in 1880, Glenville church, a view of the Holland marsh, Sir William Mulock's residence and walnut groves.

WRITES FROM U. S. A.

By KATIE SMITH
(Mrs. James Adie, 324 N. Martin St., Titusville, Pa.)

Dear Old Timers of the gay eighties: Let me recall to your memory others of that era. Remember that courtly gentleman, Allan Ramsay, who from some childish ailment went all the rest of his days with his head carried very much on one side?

I've not mentioned the Bastedo family before. Mr. Bastedo was the good looking postmaster of that day, with a family of nice looking boys and girls. Etta and Cecil went to school with me. Remember School Inspector Davidson and his visits to our classes?

Believe it or not, we had an "Annie Laurie" going to school with us in those days. She and May Warner were inseparable. Jesse Doan used to drive into town with his pony and dog-cart. Mr. Savage was our chief constable. He lived on Main St. near the old Hewitt hotel. Reminds me how clever Hughie Hewitt was as a child, in vaudeville stuff.

Do you recall Jack Eck and his cousin, Gerald Pearson?

Fair time was the highlight of the fall. I paid ten whole cents back in 1890, to hear a phonograph record, played from a wax cylinder with ear-phones like a doctor uses in his stethoscope.

Mr. Urquhart was our butcher and on certain days of the week he visited our neighborhood in his butcher's wagon. He wore a blue smock and, coming over the hill, he stood up and blew a long silver horn. Our dog soon learned there was a bone or meal of scraps to be had when Mr. Urquhart came by, so he was Page 7, Col. 6

PEONY SHOW WILL BE HELD SATURDAY

Newmarket Horticultural Society's first show of the year will be held on Saturday in St. Paul's Memorial hall.

It will be the peony show, and is expected to attract a wonderful array of bloom. The show is open only to members. Only members may compete, but the show is open to the public. A free draw will be held for a bouquet.

Prizes will be given to school children for the best vase of wild flowers and for the best bird-house.

Roses, pansies, aquilegia, lupinus, iris will be shown as well as peonies.

The Holy Name Society of St. John's Roman Catholic church is making a playground and ball diamond for north end youngsters on the south side of Huron St.

OLD BOYS' REUNION

Newmarket streets are full today. This is for many a year; For this is Old Reunion Day. Folks came from far and near.

They are the little boys who swam

And played near Fairy Pond. Or bled o'er hills to Bogart's dam. The best of fishing ground.

And then into the world went they

For honor, fame, esteem. And now they're coming back, they say,

To visit these old scenes.

And many a daughter too who sought

The way toward her high goal

Strangely won by the lessons taught

In some Newmarket school.

And those who stayed to build the town;

To them great praise we owe. And so, we who have been around

Shake hands. That you may know

How very glad we are we came. So many friends we've found. It makes us mighty proud to claim, Newmarket, our home town.

CLOCK REMAINS MYSTERY

No one today living can tell the story of the failure of the agreement between the Christian church and the town for the installation of a four-faced clock in the tower of the church, so far as he knows, Fred Hartley, D'Arcy St., told The Era last week.

An historical account of the laying of the corner-stone of this church by the Earl of Dufferin, which appeared in a recent Era, recalled this agreement which came to naught. The tower of the church to this day has four clock-less fronts.

Mr. Hartley does remember, however, lots of things about Newmarket's earlier days, and in view of Newmarket's approaching reunion was quite ready to recall them.

Eighty-one years old last January, Mr. Hartley was born in Pickering. His mother was Annie Simmons, daughter of Richard Simmons, a flour miller, and was born in Newmarket in 1837 and was baptised in St. Paul's church in 1838. His father, John Hartley, was born in 1831.

The family moved to Newmarket from Whitby in 1866, the

Music In Schools Meets With Parents' Approval

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE OFFICER HAS NOTHING TO DO, SAYS WRITER

By VIOLET HARMAN

Judging by the packed hall and the evident enthusiasm at Kettleby parish hall last Friday evening, King township is going music conscious. And if interest continues, much talent will yet be uncovered and developed among our very young citizens and we should have a much finer township because of it.

Most of us are aware of the change in the public school program. It seems to be a happy change, since it is a difficult task to keep the children away from school. Pity the attendance officer!

"Musical training is one of the finest of the new additions to our school curriculum," declared Rev. F. V. Abbott, who acted as chairman for Friday evening's program.

Most parents are delighted to see their children gaining an appreciation of really good music. This was evidenced by the proud, smiling faces about the hall. They are glad to see their children receiving this fine training that many of them were not privileged to receive. They are proud to see those wide-eyed youngsters performing so admirably and with such happy confidence under the leadership of Mr. Jackson, who deserves a bouquet.

The children sang unaccompanied many very lovely two-part songs as, "O, come with me," and, "Ho, the boating." The union songs were very pretty. Particularly did they seem to enjoy singing, "Billy Boy." Then there were "The violin solos by Stewart Calhoun, who is a promising young artist. The young girls who took part in the ballet dancing and folk dancing did them gracefully and well. Little Valerie Hunter of Schomberg stole the show for a time with her solo ballet dances.

"I hope that very soon every school will have music," said Inspector Lapp.

Sabbath Quiet Punctured By Motorcycles, Stopped

MAY NOT GET MOTORCYCLES WHEN WANTED, SAYS COUNCILLOR

Complaint about motorcycles heard at the fair grounds on Sunday afternoon was made by Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale at the town council meeting on Tuesday evening.

Reeve F. A. Lundy and Councillor A. V. Higginson expressed agreement.

Councillor Wm. Dixon, chairman of the water and light committee, said that he had received several complaints and that he had asked Constable Kenneth Mount to "tell them not to come on Sunday."

"They were gone when he got there," said Mr. Dixon.

Apparently Constable Mount had visited the track earlier in the afternoon, for Mr. Dixon added that he would ask that the police not interfere with their duties.

Later in the meeting Councillor Frank Bowser said that he had been at the track, and that Constable Kenneth Mount had come to him and asked his opinion, ion, which he gave.

"I didn't butt in, he asked my advice," said Mr. Bowser. "I pointed out that neighbors seemed to be enjoying the motorcycles. I told him that we had trouble in getting the motorcycles here when we wanted them, and that if he stopped them, we might not get them here again. He had told them to stop. Then he went back and told them to go ahead."

"You know the motorcycles tear the track to pieces," said Mr. Dixon. "They won't be there any more."

Mr. Dixon also announced that the track would be closed to horses after Sunday so that the track can be put in shape for the dominion bicycle race championships during the reunion.

"Bicycle races are a better advertisement for the town than horses ever will be," he said.

Redmen Pretty Sure Of Play-Offs, Conquer King

SEVENTH INNING SPURT
THREATENS NEWMARKET'S
EARLY LEAD

By JACK PEPIATT

King came, saw, and was conquered by the Newmarket Redmen to the tune of 14-9 in the ball park last Thursday evening. The game was salted down, packed and ready for prompt shipment to Joe Spilletto, until the King City array broke out in the seventh, drove Wes Niles to the showers and threatened to overcome a 14-3 lead set up by the locals. However, they were finally retired before they could put the skids under the Redmen.

Hits were scarce the first two cantos and Niles retired the opposing batsmen in order till the third. Newmarket collected a lone tally in the first and second.

From then on till the seventh the locals played mayhem with the city under-arm artists. King collected only three tallies up to the near fatal last stanza. Niles, who had been yielding only scattered hits, received a shoulder injury in a mix-up on

This shake-up spelled blotto to Wes's control and he was yanked for Alex. Webster. Alex. managed to retire the side after this final spurge had netted King six bambinos.

Neufeld, Cain and Gibney played bang-up ball for the hub team. Harvey earned a round-trip on the bases from his smack over centre field in the closing part of the game.

With this game written in black ink, the Redmen are in a fair place for a play-off position. Consistent playing will assure this.

Artist Who Painted King Credits Chance To Prayer

PAYS VISIT TO ST. JOHN'S
SEPARATE SCHOOL,
GIVES PICTURE

A great honor was paid to Newmarket on Monday when Francis J. Haxby, the artist who painted the portrait of King George VI which is to be hung in Toronto city hall, presented to Newmarket separate school an autographed copy of the excellent picture published by the Toronto Daily Star.

Mr. Haxby, whose painting has won so much acclaim and made him famous almost overnight, only a young man now, was as a boy a member of the Toronto parish of Rev. Dr. W. D. Muckle, and was in Newmarket on Monday to set up a beautiful garden background which he has painted for the statue of Mary, mother of Jesus, at St. John's church.

Mr. Haxby said that at one point "Dr. Muckle gave me the encouragement and the pat on the back which meant so much."

Introducing Mr. Haxby to the children, Dr. Muckle said that he had already painted seven pictures now hanging in the Toronto city hall and that the picture of the king will be the eighth.

great," said Mr. Haxby. "Perhaps one of you may be a great doctor, a great scientist, or a great nurse. We might even have a Florence Nightingale."

"I was just so high when I started painting flowers," said Mr. Haxby. "I never thought that one day I might paint the king."

"I started designing pictures for garbage cans in Toronto," he related laughingly.

"You are living in a very beautiful place. You should appreciate all the trees you see. Take even the beauty of a ship like the Queen Mary. Man has never made anything as beautiful as a tree. You ought to feel proud to live in Newmarket."

Mr. Haxby told the children that the commission to paint the king, which came to him from David Dunkelman, Toronto manufacturer, had been the result of prayer. Work had been dull and he had prayed for work, he said. Miss Mary Leddy, principal, Page 8, Col. 5

CONSERVATION NEAR HOME

Among Whitchurch's most successful sons is H. R. MacMillan, described in Saturday's Globe and Mail as "the leading figure in lumber, fisheries and export trade in British Columbia." On his way home to Vancouver from a round-the-world trip, he was interviewed on conditions in Canada and the Orient.

"Canada's foreign trade leads Japan's by a million dollars a year, yet Japan has wiped out unemployment, maintains the third largest army and the third largest navy. Its industry is completely modernized and working at capacity. Of course," he added, according to the newspaper's course, "Canadians have motor-cars, radios, a standard of living far ahead of Japan, and far ahead of the present national income."

In other words, Japanese work much harder than Canadians, and they all work, yet Canadians enjoy a higher standard of living, partly because we are over-spending our income, and partly, presumably, because Canada has greater natural resources.

COMMUNITY WEALTH

Then Mr. MacMillan had a word of warning about the waste of natural resources. It is refreshing to hear a lumberman express concern about the wasting of forests. Canadians are foolish to allow private individuals to exploit forest resources without regard for replacement. There should be a national plan to make sure that as many trees are replaced as are used. Our extreme regard for the rights of private ownership makes possible the destruction of our common wealth and resources. Take an example close at home. Any individual farmer may cut down his wood-lot without making replacement if he wishes, but if all his neighbors do the same, none of them will have water in their wells, their soil will lose its fertility, and the entire community will be poorer. That has happened in King township, as we know from the Davis-Mayall report.

WHITCHURCH TRAGEDY

Out in Whitchurch, where the county has been planting demonstration wood-lots to reclaim land that has been turned into waste desert, with the top-soil blown away, there are owners breaking new soil to the plow within a few hundred yards of areas where the top-soil has been carried away and the land is now valueless. It is their right but it is a threat to the entire community's prosperity. Soil which should not be tilled may be excellently suited to produce a forest crop. We would like to hear Mr. MacMillan's comments on what has happened to hundreds of acres of top-soil in his native Whitchurch, and his suggestions for conservation of what remains in those great sand areas.

AN ONTARIO WRITER

Some time about 1890 a brilliant graduate of the University of Toronto, an Ontario man, went to Dalhousie University at Halifax, Nova Scotia, as professor of English literature. He was Archibald MacMechan and soon became interested in the history of the old province by the Atlantic. He visited fishermen in their homes, and interviewed old men in chimney-corners, and gradually pieced together some great stories of adventure at sea—true stories of the daring and privation of seafaring folk, stories of wrecks, battles, mutinies. At the same time he developed as a great writer of English prose, and his stories of Nova Scotia are recognized as an important contribution to Canadian literature.

AN IMMIGRANT

To two generations of Nova Scotians he taught a love of the history and sea-love of their native province. He became more Nova Scotian than the Nova Scotians. It seems strange that it should fall to the lot of an outsider by origin to tell the history of Nova Scotia and awake residents of that province to pride in romantic stories of adventure and daring of Nova Scotia ships and sailing-men. Yet it was natural that the newcomer could see what seemed commonplace to natives of the province. Fortunate was it for Canadian history and literature that the newcomer not only had eyes that could see but hands that could write.

HOMESICK, NOT SEA-SICK

There is great reading in such volumes as "Old Province Tales" and "There Go the Ships." Archibald MacMechan is gone now, but he has left an enduring monument. A happy thrill was ours last week when we received by mail from Mrs. MacMechan a volume called "Late Harvest," the last published writings of a great Canadian writer. He was principally a writer of prose, but this is a volume of verse, sea songs, sonnets, verse written through the years, most of it of particular interest to Nova Scotians, Haligonians and Dalhousians. We think we shall be homesick.

STILL IN LIMELIGHT

Isn't it curious how our interest in the king and queen persists even in their visit to the ancient colony of Newfoundland, and their return home? That would seem to indicate that the visit of the king and queen to Canada will create a greater demand in Canada for news of the sovereigns in future. Our daily newspapers will have new duties to perform. They will have to tell us what the queen wore at garden-parties and how many birds the king shot over the weekend.

CEREMONY

We were rather interested in the coincidence that the present governor of Newfoundland is a "Sir Humphrey" and that a "Sir Humphrey" (Gilbert) founded the colony in 1583. There was also an interesting bit of ceremony concerning the arrival of the Empress of Britain in a Newfoundland port. "Twenty minutes after the liner's anchor had been dropped, Governor Sir Humphrey Walwyn went aboard and soon after Vice-Admiral Sir Sidney Meyrick, commander-in-chief of the West Indies and American squadron of the royal navy, came ashore. He was followed to land by the governor and immediately afterward the royal barge left for shore with the king and queen to a salute of 21 guns."

A CUSTOM REVISED

At one time, as once before related in these columns, it was the custom at Halifax, when a British man-of-war arrived, with an admiral aboard, for the lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia to pay a call to the ship first, and then the admiral would return the call at government house. Some years ago, however, the judicial committee of the imperial privy council, in giving judgment on a Canadian case, held that a lieutenant-governor was as much a representative of the crown as the governor-general. In other words, he was royalty. The procedure then changed. It became the practice for admirals, no matter how great their rank, to call first on the lieutenant-governor, and then for the lieutenant-governor to return the call.

A ROYAL REVERSAL

As is well known, commission government has replaced responsible government in the ancient colony, but we fancy that the same procedure would be followed in Newfoundland. The presence of the king himself aboard the visiting ship would again reverse the procedure, and so we read that "Sir Humphrey Walwyn went aboard and soon after Vice-Admiral Sir Sidney Meyrick came ashore."

JUST POLITICS

Denton Massey, M. P., says: "The ghastly and shameful neglect of young Canadians from coast-to-coast is the most inexcusable shame of this government at Ottawa." There is neglect and it is shameful, but it comes ill from Mr. Massey as the supporter of a government which made even less effort to help youth. The present federal government has introduced the quite excellent dominion-provincial youth training plan, but it has been of little or no help in Ontario, we understand, as a result of the perversity of the Hepburn government. The Bennett government relied on high tariffs to cure all troubles and the King government has relied on a few trade treaties to cure all troubles, but neither plan has been an outstanding success. We Canadians must work out some scheme for management of our affairs which will give us the efficiency of the dictatorship and retain for us all the liberty of the democracy. The liberty of being on relief is not to be highly cherished.

The Common Round

TWO LADIES UNDER A PARASOL

By Isabel Inglis Colville

I think it's in "Rupert of Hentzau" that there is a chapter entitled "Three gentlemen round a tea-table." In that case, the table was used as a weapon of defence and offence.

In the case of "two ladies under a parasol," the parasol was a defence against the burning sun and a matter of offence to no one.

The tea table episode concerned the fate of a king and a queen.

The queen of the greatest empire on earth and that of the first lady of the world's largest republic.

There have been times in history when queen consorts and first ladies, beyond ruling their households and appearing at state functions, had very little influence in the world.

But in the world of today, queens and first ladies have an influence that is, in a more narrow circle, as strong almost as those of king and president.

Mrs. Roosevelt is doing, in the United States, by her pen, by word of mouth, and by her interest, and by her work among girls and for exploited children, something that will set her name among the immortals as surely as will her husband's, by his breadth of vision and very real efforts after the good of mankind.

And can those of us who have watched Queen Elizabeth's triumphal progress from Halifax to Vancouver, from Niagara to Hyde Park, deny, for one moment, that she has no real power and influence?

Her smile, to be what it is, must come from a heart filled to overflowing with love and pity and profound interest in her fellow-men.

What was it that made us all gasp when we saw her, and surrender to her charm without a struggle?

SOME WOODPECKERS WELCOME A STRANGER

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"What bird is that hopping about on the ground over there on the edge of the woods?" Mrs. Woody, the little Downy Woodpecker, inquired of her big cousin, Mrs. Flicker.

"I haven't seen it yet," answered the Flicker. "Oh, yes, I do now. Let me see. It's a large bird—not nearly as big as I am, of course, but bigger than you are by a couple of inches. And it's tawny brown, with a light breast. Is it a Brown Thrasher?"

"Why, no, of course not," said Mrs. Woody, who had been staring curiously at the bird. "It's a Thrasher has a long tail, a slightly curved bill and a light eye. It's a Thrasher of some kind."

"You are well informed," said Mrs. Flicker admiringly. "But how do you know it's a Thrasher? After all, how do you tell a Thrasher when you see one?"

"Well, the Thrashers are birds who like poking around the ground," Mrs. Woody told her. "They are brown birds, medium-sized, ranging from about my size or smaller to about two inches larger than I. And they all have more or less spotted breasts. How is that for a definition?"

"Not bad," admitted the Flicker. "I suppose that is a Veery or Wilson's Thrasher, if it is a Thrasher, then. I heard a Veery singing that lovely trilling vesper song last evening."

"Well, you haven't heard this bird give the Veery's song, because it isn't a Veery," said Mrs. Woody, firmly, "although it does look quite a bit like one."

"What do you keep leading me on to make the wrong answers for, if you know who it is all the time?" asked the Flicker, who was beginning to be annoyed. "I'll have to be getting back to my children, anyway."

"Surely you want to know who that is before you go," said the Downy, with a grin. "It's a Wood Thrasher. It's a little bigger than the Veery, and although they are both tawny brown, the Wood Thrasher has a pure white breast with sharp, round, dark spots on it, while the Veery's spots are lighter and indistinct. The Veery's back and head are evenly colored, while the tawny brown of the Wood Thrasher is brightest on its head."

"I'm sure you're right in your lives at the W. C. T. U. convention in Toronto last week."

HORN—At Bellevue, June 16, to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mann, a daughter.

MARRIED—At the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. J. A. Rankin, on June 12, Mr. John Nelson to Miss Emma Blinn, both of Aurora.

DIED—At Holland Landing, June 10, Frances, wife of Emanuel Grant, aged 20 years.

DIED—At the residence of Mr. John Rodwell, June 16, Joseph Mowder, aged 58 years. Informant was made in Pine Orchard cemetery.

She wore no queenly crown, no ermine, no tiara, when most of us saw her, but she wore the crown of a lovely life, as wife, as mother, as daughter, and as queen, and a mantle of kindness which was spread out to cover the sick and the sorrowful.

She, too, like Mrs. Roosevelt, will go down in history as one who, by her influence and interest in the social betterment of those who are too inattentive to speak for themselves, is entitled to the name of "Elizabeth the Good," just as surely as King George VI has earned the love and loyalty of his subjects by his untiring efforts on behalf of boys, and in the cause of peace, and better relations between nations.

How much these two great women must have in common. They are both mothers, and their interest in and love of their own children flows out and embraces those who are motherless; or mothers faced with trying to bring up children on inadequate means.

They are essentially homemakers and that makes them doubly conscious of the right of each one of us to a home, and they have the brains to be able to think and talk intelligently on the things which are of vital interest and importance to their husbands.

Yes, that famous parasol covered two heads that will inevitably influence their day and generation more and more.

Queen Elizabeth is helping to mould the character of a future queen. What a work! No great sculptor ever had the opportunity to carve such a masterpiece; no painter to paint such a character.

What she is doing will make history! God save the queen!

After reading newspapers about the Columbus, S. C., new anti-slavery crusade, a woman asked Mayor L. B. Owens of that town to have someone shoot an annoying mocking bird which woke her every morning. The mayor referred the request to the state game department.

The king and queen have gone from the new world back to the old, but a glowing chain of warm remembrance binds them to their people here. At the tiny fishing village of Portugal Cove, Newfoundland, it was not the lords and ladies, the prime ministers or presidents, who saw them off. A lovely wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday, when Doris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D'Arcy Miller, Gorham St., became the bride of Earl K. Simmerman, son of Mrs. John Simmerman and the late Mr. Simmerman, of Aurora.

Rev. R. R. McMath conducted the ceremony.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of white silk net, trimmed with velvet, over taffeta. A white shoulder veil was caught with a bouquet of roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Irene Tibbitt, dressed in a smoky pink net gown with flower trim over taffeta and matching pink doll hat, was bridesmaid. She carried a bouquet of roses and lily of the valley.

The bride's mother, wearing a sheer gown of powder blue, and a corsage of roses and lily of the valley, received at the reception which followed the ceremony. She was assisted by the groom's mother, dressed in a crepe gown of navy shade and corsage of roses.

For travelling, the bride wore a navy costume with pinhead stripe, white blouse, hat, gloves and shoes. After the reception they left on a honeymoon trip to Temple, Penn.

On their return the happy couple will reside in Aurora.

"You're very kind, I'm sure," murmured the Thrasher. "I'm afraid we don't mix much socially, though. We are rather solitary birds, really, and to tell you the truth, quite shy."

"What do you eat, if you don't mind my asking?" inquired the Flicker.

"Oh, insects, and soft fruit, if we can get it," replied the Thrasher.

"Just listen to that Red Squirrel scolding," said a Pheasant, who had alighted on a limb near the others. "I think he's having an argument with your husband, Mrs. Flicker."

"I'd better hustle home then," said the Flicker as she spread her beautiful, big, golden-lined wings. "He'll have forgotten about the family entirely."

ORIGINAL SIX-INCH KEY STILL IN USE

The following interesting paper on the pioneers of King City and community was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Bellamy, convener of the original research at a recent meeting of the Special Women's Institute. The village of King City was originally known as Springhill, though for many years the post office was always King. Benjamin Lloyd kept the first store and the post office was in the store.

Peasant Crossley donated his back field for a cemetery, providing it was a distinction, as there was a King in north Ontario.

There was another store across the corner kept by Mr. Garden. It was rebuilt by J. C. Stokes and is the present bakery carried on by Geo. Stokes. There were two taverns, one in the village and the other at the station. Large stables and sheds were necessary for riding horses, as at that time all teaming was done by horses.

They had to be fed and rested. A man would leave his horse in a hotel stable and take the train, it would be attended by a hostler, engaged for that purpose. The horse would be hitched and ready for the man to return home when needed and a tip expected. The tip was often a treat over the bar, and the number of glasses of beer some could consume was astonishing.

The Anglican was the first church in the village. It was built in 1837. The land was donated by Mr. Bulford, who owned the farm at that time. It was mostly built at that time. The church was built of plank, standing on end, the trees being felled on the property and sawed by Mr. Burns at a local saw mill. The planks were fastened securely by pins made of wood instead of nails. The key was blacksmith-made and is still in use, fully six inches long. Mr. Bevan was the first preacher. They were connected with Lloyd-town.

The W.M.S. have celebrated their 50th anniversary. The Methodist (now United church) was built in 1871, repaired and enlarged in 1923. Their W.M.S. was organized about forty-three years ago.

The Baptist church was first built at Eversley in 1873, but was moved to King and rebuilt in 1889. Their sewing circle disbanded.

The late Dr. Lewis Langstaff bought several acres of land, built houses, planted an orchard, maples, also evergreens which did much to beautify his property and they still remain.

A foundry, built by John Ross, stood where Mr. McClure's house now stands. The smaller farm implements were made there. He also had a blacksmith shop and wheelwright shop. The foundry was wrecked and Robert Harrison built two houses with it. A peculiarity of the foundry was a row of barrels along the roof ridge, so constructed to catch rain water to be used in case of fire. Beside it was Thos. Follitt's undertaking parlor. He also sold furniture. He had a photograph car in his yard. He would take pictures, mostly tintypes. Sometimes he would take the car out a few miles in the country, have it there a few weeks, then move on to another corner. It was horse-drawn.

A military drill shed stood where Cecil Walker's house now stands, later not used for that purpose, but for garden parties and fall fairs. John Ness used it for a skating rink, and John Hogan, who built it, for a race course. It was wrecked and rebuilt as a barn.

Mr. Curtis was a carpenter in these days and built several of the first frame houses.

Alfred Jarvis later built several frame houses, went to the Yukon at the time of the gold rush in 1898, returned and lived here until he died.

Jonas Rowe had a store up on Princess street, which was burned. He built the nice brick building occupied by Dr. Pinkerton at present. It was used for a store. They sold fancy goods, groceries, liquor, seeds, etc.

J. C. Stokes built the Wells McDonald residence. He was the auctioneer at that time.

Isaac McBride was the first man to have a grain buyer at King station. It was a great relief when farmers could sell grain at King rather than haul it to Aurora. There was no school for the children of the village until 1872. It was repaired and a furnace installed a few years ago.

The children from the Henry mill, about two and one half miles north, went to Kinghorn or Eversley, about 30 families.

Miss Blisher kept a private school for young ladies in a room at the station hotel, Mr. Dennis, proprietor. She taught sewing, fancy work, music, art, etc.

A school for young children was held in a room which had been a wheelwright's shop, on Mr. Walsh's lawn near the United church. The present school has two rooms and two teachers.

Whiting Crossley had a bell installed on his dining house, which was rung regularly. He had a small library on his front lawn, which was a splendid help to the people. He also had a triangle on the corner roped off and a flag pole erected. These things lasted his lifetime.

There were two shoemakers shops, Mr. Irwin, and Mr. Robertson, who moved to Manitoulin Island.

The railroad went through in 1854 as far as Aurora, then to Barrie, then further.

A cheese factory was operated for a few years in the 1850's.

POLICE COURT

CONVICTIONS MADE IN THREE LIQUOR CASES

On a charge of having liquor in an unlawful place Arthur Holley, Holland Landing, was fined $100 and costs of $36.75, or three months, the liquor was ordered confiscated and the premises were declared public, and on a second charge of obstructing police he was fined an additional $10 without costs.

Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe imposed the fines after Holley pleaded guilty to both charges through his defence counsel, Campbell Line, at the police court here on Tuesday.

Two other charges of having intoxicating liquor and keeping liquor for sale laid against Holley were withdrawn. Four joint charges against Mrs. Holley were also withdrawn, as Mr. Line said she had another "spell" before court and was not able to be present.

"On Sunday afternoon, May 28, I went into Holley's house at Holland Landing, accompanied by Constables Bartliff and Sutherland of the R. C. M. P., and I found three men drinking around a table," stated Constable A. M. Shaughnessy, R. C. M. P. "Holley was outside and when we started to question the three men Mrs. Holley came over and sat on one man's knee and told him not to say anything. Then Mrs. Holley broke three bottles of beer on the floor and when one of the constables tried to get some of the beer off the floor into a broken bottle Holley came in and tried to stop him and a fight ensued."

Mr. Line asked that the minimum fine for having liquor be imposed on Holley, as Mrs. Holley had been having epileptic fits for years.

Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K. C., stated that he wished the Liquor Control board to be informed about the conviction so that the Holley permits could be cancelled.

On a similar charge of having liquor in an unlawful place, Percy Lloyd, Aurora, was also fined $100 and costs of $26.50, or three months, and the liquor was ordered confiscated. Lloyd also pleaded guilty to the charge through his counsel, Lorne Lee, Aurora, of having liquor in the Queens hotel, Aurora.

"We found four men drinking in a room at the hotel on Sunday afternoon, May 28," testified Constable Shaughnessy. "There were two part bottles of rye whiskey in the room when we entered but Lloyd was not present and later when he came in he said the liquor was his and had been bought on his permit."

"We are not responsible for the sale of Lloyd's own liquor to these men, as the man who sold it to them has since skipped out," stated Mr. Lee.

A charge of spreading false news laid against Dr. G. A. C. Gunton, Aurora, was adjourned one week. The charge laid by County Constable A. Fleury reads that Dr. Gunton on May 12, at Toronto and Aurora did unlawfully by means of certain false statements, to wit, that on that day two men, both of whom were unknown to him, had held him up and assaulted him in King township and robbed him of $20, cause officers to investigate false allegations.

Five Toronto youths ranging in age from 17 to 21 were arrested by police at Newmarket railway station early Tuesday morning and each charged with vagrancy and theft. The charges were adjourned one week and bail was set at $200 each. The youths stole two lawn chairs and a wicker chair from Aurora earlier the same morning and were bringing them north on the freight train and when they saw the constables they threw the chairs off the train, Constable Dunham, Aurora, stated.

After pleading guilty to a charge of consuming, Alex. Harvey, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs of $5 and the liquor was ordered confiscated. Joint charges against R. J. Barker, and Wm. Baker, both of Toronto, were dismissed.

Constable K. Mount stated that he found a bottle of beer in the car and a part bottle of whiskey and that Harvey had been consuming.

On a charge of not having his license plates, Joe Hodgins, Keswick, was fined $1.50 including costs, and on a second charge of failing to produce his driver's license he was remanded for sentence.

County Constable Alex. McCallum said that he stopped the truck driven by Hodgins at Keswick and that there were no license plates on the rear of the truck.

"Hodgins took the plates out from under the car seat and he had no driver's license with him," the constable said. "The department of highways was complaining that Hodgins had been driving the truck without license plates on the back and I was told to investigate."

Hodgins stated that he produced his driver's license five minutes after the constable stopped him and that he had his license plates on the back of the truck now.

On a charge of theft one boy, 17, Aurora, was remanded in custody one week for sentence. Crown Attorney Mathews told the magistrate that he is on probation now, as he was given suspended sentence on a breaking and entering charge in this court on April 18. He pleaded not guilty to the theft charge.

"On May 16 he came to my house on Centre St. in Aurora and asked if I wanted him to mow my lawn and that was the first time that I ever saw him," testified Miss Margaret Craik. "On May 20 he returned to my place with another boy and said that his friend with him wanted to rent some rooms and would I show him the rooms. The other boy, 16 years old, said he wanted the rooms for his mother, dad, and himself."

"He and I went upstairs to see the rooms and left the 17-year-old in the kitchen. When we came down I saw the latter coming out of my bedroom. There was a bird's nest above one of the bedroom windows, so I asked the two boys if they would come up with me and take it down. I showed the 17-year-old the way down cellar through the pantry and he took the nest down to the furnace. I had left my change purse containing a dollar bill and some change on the pantry shelf. The boys sat down and talked for a few minutes before they left and then when I went in for my purse after they had gone, it was missing. The younger boy was with me all the time upstairs but the other was alone and also went down cellar. A safety razor was missing from my bedroom also."

"Why did you go to Miss Craik's on May 20?" Mr. Mathews asked the younger boy.

"To see the rooms she had for rent," he answered.

"Did you want to rent any rooms?" "No."

"What happened at Wellington St. the day you came out of Miss Craik's?"

"My friend had a small change purse with him and in it I saw a one dollar bill and some change and then he put it back in his pocket and that is the last I saw of it," the boy said.

The 17-year-old, on being questioned by Mr. Mathews, denied that they asked to see the rooms, and that he had taken the change purse, and he stated that he was just looking around her bedroom and that he didn't even see any purse in the pantry.

"You were given a chance two months ago and you couldn't have for just that short time," Magistrate Woodliffe told him.

Last week Joseph Goldstein, Oak Ridge, was ordered to pay wages of $98 to Harry Bloomer within one week or in default of payment send 30 days. A. J. G. Wilson, Aurora, special prosecutor for the complainant, Harry Bloomer, told the magistrate that Goldstein had not paid the $98. The magistrate said that he would be committed to jail for 30 days.

Mr. Wilson was in court last week on a charge of theft of a forge and receiving stolen goods laid against Ernest Cottrell, Bradford, were both dismissed. D. E. Wade, Bradford, was defence counsel.

Harold Marsh, Holland Landing, stated that he had a forge and that in 1937 it was stolen or taken away by someone. Two weeks ago he saw a forge in Roy Bell's work-shop at Holland Landing, and with the exception of the top it closely resembled the one belonging to him. Bell said it had been lent to him by Ernest Cottrell, Mr. Marsh testified.

Cottrell stated that he made the forge himself from old parts which he gathered from different places and that he made the forge for the use of the left hand as he was left-handed.

On a charge of having a revolver Mrs. Rose Merriman, Pottsville, was fined $10 and costs, or ten days, and the revolver was ordered confiscated. Two charges of vagrancy and pointing a revolver were withdrawn.

"I was talking to Mervin Houghton at the corner when Mrs. Merriman walked out to the road and stuck the revolver in my ribs," stated Wm. Hughes, Pottsville.

"Mrs. Merriman was under the influence of liquor and she was talking a lot and swearing and calling me and the neighbors names. She said she would shoot me so I made no attempt to get away. We were just talking at the corner and there was no occasion for her to come out with the revolver."

Mervin Houghton testified that Mrs. Merriman also stuck the revolver into his ribs.

County Constable A. Fleury stated that he went to the Merriman home the next morning with a search warrant and that Mrs. Merriman gave him the revolver and said that it was a toy. The revolver was not a toy but it had no shots in it and it was not registered, the constable stated. The handle was broken off the gun and Mr. Merriman said he did that the previous night when he tried to get the gun away from his wife.

"Mrs. Merriman admitted to me that she had been out on the road with the gun," said Constable Fleury.

Mrs. Merriman testified that she had two drinks of wine that night and then went out to the verandah. "I started to sing 'Three Cheers for the Red, White, and Blue' and two boys going by on their bicycles made fun of me. They came back again and said 'she's drinking again,' so I went out with the broken revolver. The boys were swearing and using filthy language but I wasn't."

A charge of having illegal liquor laid against Philip Herald, Sharon, was adjourned one week for judgment.

Constable J. Jardine stated he found Herald drinking from a bottle of swamp whiskey in his home at Sharon. The whiskey was seized and sent to the dominion analyst. "Herald pleaded with me not to take away the whiskey and he offered me a drink, but I told him he could not keep it," the constable stated.

On a charge of reckless driving Noel Calver, Mount Albert, was fined $10 and costs, or ten days.

"I investigated an accident at J. Oldham's service station at Hartman and found that Calver had run into a gas pump and damaged it," stated Constable Jardine. "He didn't have a driver's license with him, and later I found out that one he had at home was only an instruction permit. I drove the car and found that it had no lights, no horn, the emergency brake was out of commission, a rod of the service brake was broken, and when you stepped on the foot brake it would send the car sideways. The steering gear wobbled and all four shock-absorbers were disconnected. The Calver car was a dangerous menace on the highway, so I drove it to Calver's and removed the plates, so it could not be driven."

County Constable Wm. Hill stated that he advised Constable Jardine to take the car off the highway, as it was not fit to be driven.

Calver testified that he bought the car from a Newmarket garage and that it hadn't been driven 175 miles. "I took the car back to the garage several times as it was not working right and they told me I was not driving it right," Calver stated. "The lights and horn were short circuited when I hit the pump, and since the accident I have written to the garage asking them to take the car back."

Richmond Hill Noses Out Aurorans By 9-7 Margin

VISITORS MAINTAIN EARLY LEAD TO WIN IN SECOND BATTLE

Aurora's softball squad lost a tough game to Richmond Hill on Tuesday night when they dropped a league fixture in the town park by the score of 9-7.

A little heavier batting in the second and third innings gave the Hill their two-run margin, and they managed to hang on to it until the final frame.

Both teams went scoreless in the first inning, although Will White, of Aurora, did manage to get as far as third base. Bennett and Proctor crossed the plate for Richmond Hill in the second, and Aurora replied with a single run by Ray White.

In the third inning Richmond Hill scored three runs, with Mabley, Brown and Bennett getting the credit. Will White and Bone tallied for Aurora, and the Hill went into the fourth with a 3-3 lead.

The Hill team failed to tally in the fourth, while Ray White came through again for Aurora to narrow the margin.

VETERANS TO HOLD CEMETERY SERVICE

Aurora veterans will hold their annual service at the cemetery on Sunday. They will meet at the town park at 2 p.m. and move off at 2:30 p.m. Parading south on Yonge St., they will place a wreath on the cenotaph and proceed to the cemetery, where a short service will be held.

In the fifth inning both teams scored once, Young of Richmond Hill and Heaney of Aurora, crossing the plate, and in the sixth Richmond Hill resumed its two-run lead when O'Dill crossed the plate and Aurora went scoreless.

Bennett and Echlin scored for Richmond Hill in the seventh and final inning. Bone and Shore came in for Aurora, and with Clubine on third base it looked as if the home-townners might get a break. The next batters went out, however, leaving Clubine on third.

O'Dill handled the pitching for the Hill, Shore for Aurora.

Foreman Reports Three Thousand Feet Of Sidewalk Need Repairs

COMMITTEE WILL CHECK UP, AND MAKE REPORT TO NEXT MEETING

A memorandum from Town Foreman James Goulding, held over from last council meeting, was brought to council's attention on Tuesday night by Deputy-Reeve L. K. Farr. It dealt with town sidewalks, which, in the opinion of the foreman, needed repair.

The memorandum listed over 1,000 feet of sidewalk on Yonge St., and 1,474 feet on Wellington St. west, as needing attention. A councillor had added to the list, 75 feet in front of Dr. E. J. Henderson's home, the deputy-reeve said.

"It's the worst in town," Councillor Dr. Henderson declared. "It's going to be fixed."

The total repairing covered by the report was 3,000 lineal feet. With an average width of three feet, six inches, and a cost of 20 cents a square foot, the cost of such repair would run over $2,000.

The roads and bridges committee will give the matter further attention and bring in a report at the next meeting, it was stated.

FATHER, SONS PLAN TRAILER TRIP WEST

A. N. Fisher, with sons Clarence and Douglas, leave this weekend on a six-week motor trip westward. They will tow their modern and completely equipped trailer through Sarnia, Sault Ste. If time and conditions permit, the trio hope to go through to Vancouver.

CHILD BADLY HURT IN TUMBLE FROM WAGON

Clifford Eade, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Eade, who live two miles south of Vaudor, was seriously injured on Monday night. The child had been riding on a load of gravel driven by his father and slipped off. It is believed the wagon passed over his body.

Dr. C. R. Boulding was called and the child was taken to York County hospital. He was found to have suffered some fractured ribs, with a possibility of internal injuries.

COUNCIL TO VOTE ON BY-LAW COVERING NEW FIRM STARTED AFTER ASSESSMENT IS TAKEN

"If a man starts up in business in town after the assessment, you can make him pay a portion of his business tax before he starts business," Councillor Dr. E. J. Henderson stated in council on Tuesday.

"It is a business tax, pure and simple," advised Town Solicitor Lorne Lee. "It must be on a pro rata basis for the year."

Dr. Henderson had reference to one particular business man who had recently opened premises in town. "He sold out his place here once, and now he is back again, competing with the man he sold to. I have no use for a man like that."

A by-law will be brought in at the next meeting, authorizing council to collect a portion of the business tax from businesses that start in town after the assessment has made his rounds.

ABOUT TOWN

A BOX OF STUFF

"How much for this box-full?" the auctioneer asked. "Fifty cents," said somebody. We got it for a dollar. We don't know why, but we always believe a box of "stuff" at an auction should be worth a dollar.

This box was worth more. When we got the box home and had spread its contents over the floor, this is what we found: a jug, of "Royal Doulton" china, for which we would not take two dollars; another jug, which we exchanged with someone for an article which we value at $4.50; and a shower-bath attachment, unused and in the box it originally came in.

Also included was an object strange to us—which we can only describe as a cylindrical box in a box. In detail: a walnut box about 18 by 12 inches long—unlocking it we found cloth rolls on which had been pasted clippings of poems, newspaper editorials (dated 1846) and two spindles, one at either end of the box, by means of which the paper rolled and unrolled, enabling one to read the section revealed. We don't know what this thing is worth, but we've never seen one before and we're not letting it go until we find out.

Another article turned out to be an old-fashioned writing case—a box that opened up to form a writing surface, with compartments for paper, envelopes, pen and ink.

Then there were three straight razors—but we're sticking to our own "safety." There were eight glasses and three sherbet cups and a few articles of china bric-a-brac.

There were four purses or wallets: two unused; one bearing the names of St. Hollingshead and John Bogart, containing a receipt to the latter, "Received of John Bogart Junior, Nine Dollars for the Stone House, Nov. the 2nd, 1825, Murdoch McLeod."

There were also some large photographs, two of tropical scenes; two of Newmarket, taken before Pickering College burned and when the radial was still functioning; a fine study of J. M. Walton, now mayor of Aurora; and an equally fine one of Erasmus Jackson, the man who made The Era what it was some time ago.

At the bottom of the box we found an old wooden box of water-color paints and two attractive water-color prints, nicely framed.

With the exception of a few nondescript articles, such as a leather-bound book of "Scripture Questions," a gift to Mrs. Hannah Bogart in 1842, and a salt, pepper and mustard cruet, a lock of John Bogart's hair, that's about all we found in our dollar box-full.

We feel just a little ashamed for having received so much and having given so little—but we don't know what we can do about it, though, of course, we could have bid more.

—J. F. W.

REPORTS GIVEN OF W.C.T.U. CONVENTION

A good attendance marked the June meeting of the Aurora W.C.T.U., held on Thursday of last week. It had been planned to hold the meeting on the lawn of the home of the president, Mrs. A. E. Quinn, but rain forced the gathering inside. The afternoon, nevertheless, was very much enjoyed.

Those present heard reports of the convention held recently in Toronto, given by Mrs. James Elliott and Mrs. S. Stephens, who were delegates.

CLERK'S OFFICE TO BE OPEN NOON HOUR

At the suggestion of Deputy-Reeve L. K. Farr, the town clerk's office will be kept open during the noon hour in future.

"Now that we have two men in the office, we should have the office open during the noon hour," the deputy-reeve said on Tuesday night.

"The staff can arrange it between themselves," agreed Mayor J. M. Walton. The mayor pointed out the crowded condition of the clerk's office and suggested that some of the book-keeping could be done in the council chamber.

Children's Posters Add To Flower Show's Attraction

PEONIES AND ROSES MAKE FINE DISPLAY IN TOWN HALL

The horticultural society's third flower show of the season, held in the town hall on Wednesday evening, was given added attraction by a display of posters created by children of the public school.

Instead of displaying collections of wild flowers this year, the children were asked to make posters. The winning posters, selected by Mrs. G. W. Williams, were as follows:

Room 1 — Girls: Dorothy Aldrich, Hazel Cannon, with honorable mention given the work of Mary Annan. Boys: Donald Watson, Earl Rose.

Room 2 — Girls: Margaret Saigle, Mavis Sisman. Boys: Bill Seaton, Charles Seath.

Room 3 — Girls: Jean Ransom; Doreen Bush and Frances Moore tied for second place. Boys: Howard Case, Charles Lawson.

Room 4 — Girls: Audrey Sayer, Valencia McKenzie, with honorable mention given Constance Brodie. Boys: Ted Cameron, Charles McNaught and Peter Payne.

Mayor J. M. Walton spoke briefly, expressing his pleasure both with the idea of the poster display, and the manner in which it was executed.

Peonies, pansies and roses featured the flower show itself. In the opinion of E. Brammer, Newmarket, who judged the show, the following were winners:

Peonies — White, flecked, creamy: David Judd, J. M. Walton. Light pink: D. Judd, Mrs. T. A. Hamer. Dark pink: J. Williams, Mrs. J. Klees. Red: D. Judd, Mrs. J. Klees.

Fancy: R. Hodgkinson, J. M. Walton. Single: Mrs. T. A. Hamer. Collection: D. Judd, J. J. Hill. Best specimen: David Judd.

Sweet William: Mrs. C. Hamer, Mrs. R. Knowles.

GOAT DOESN'T SMELL. POLICE CHIEF REPORTS

The fourth chapter of the serial story concerning the smell, or lack of smell, of an Aurora goat was heard at council on Tuesday night.

The first chapter, a complaint from a householder living next door to the goatholder, interested council some weeks ago. The second chapter, a report by the medical health officer, stating that no menace to health existed, was aired at a following meeting.

Last week council received the third chapter, a personally presented statement of the evidence against the goat, by the complaining householder. It was not the goat, so much as the grounds on which the goat was kept, that he objected to, the householder said. After a rain the smell was objectionable and attracted flies, stated the householder, voicing his belief that this condition was neither healthy nor enjoyable.

"The fourth chapter appeared this week when Chief Constable Fisher Dunham was called in to council.

"I went down to see the goat on Saturday afternoon," Chief Dunham reported. "I inspected the premises and could smell nothing. The yard is littery, but so far as smell is concerned, I cannot smell anything. I understand the goat has been in town about three years."

"Is there an ash heap at the back of the house?" asked Councillor C. E. Sparks.

"No," said the chief constable. "There are a few ashes littered around."

"We have done our part," said Mayor J. M. Walton. "He has a right to go to court if he wants to go on with it."

WILL NOT HAVE TOWN'S LEGAL BILL "TAXED"

"I think it would be unwise to have this bill taxed," Councillor C. E. Sparks stated on Tuesday night. He referred to the bill for $800 submitted by George Walsh, town's counsel in the Whitmore case.

"Taxing" is a process used to determine whether a bill for legal services is correctly made, and is made use of by those who think they are overcharged. The $800 bill covered a period of several years, Mr. Sparks stated.

"The fixing officer might think it should be more," suggested Councillor A. J. Wilson.

New Firm To Be Going Concern By August 1, Council Is Promised

DEHYDRATING EXECUTIVES SAY THEY AWAIT "O.K." ON NEW PRODUCT

REPAIR BILL WAS $5,000

Discussion with Messrs. Bazeley and Clarke, officials of the dehydrating process firm now occupying Aurora's "old match factory," took up a good share of the council's time on Tuesday night.

The agreement between the company is to the effect that the deed to the factory building was to be put in trust if the firm were a "going concern" by Dec. 1, 1938, and continuously thereafter for a stated period.

The company wrote to the council recently, asking if they might now have the deed, and the council, in some doubt as to whether they were entitled to it, sought further information from company officials last night.

The point of discussion appeared to lie in whether the company was a "going concern" at the time specified.

"We were a going concern up to the date mentioned, Dec. 1, 1938, and for seven weeks thereafter," stated Mr. Clarke, president of the firm.

"Would you have a fair wage roll in those months?" asked Mayor J. M. Walton.

"The total wage expenditure during those months would approximate $1,500 or $1,600, from May 1, 1938, to Feb. 1, 1939. The money was distributed to laborers who were from Aurora, with one exception, to repair the buildings and operate machines. We had from two to seven employees. There were times when we had 14 men working on repairs and production."

"What would your outlay be for improvements to the building?" asked Mayor Walton.

"Something in excess of $5,000," said Mr. Clarke.

"Have you produced any merchandise?" asked the mayor.

"Yes," said Mr. Clarke, and stated that a considerable quantity of yeast had been destroyed by dampness in the building, though he claimed the product was proof against atmospheric dampness, but not water. Dampness which would destroy flour would destroy the yeast, he said, stating that necessary storage conditions were the same for both products.

"Why have you not continued operations?" asked the mayor.

"We are waiting for reports as to whether it is a suitable product," said Mr. Clarke, stating

"We will be operating in four or five weeks time," said Mr. Clarke. He said his reason for asking for the deed was that he had an opportunity to sublet part of the factory to an air-conditioning firm employing 18 men.

He was given council's assurance that the town would be only to glad to co-operate in bringing any employer to town, and the time limit in which the firm was to be a "going concern" was put forward by council to Aug. 1. Mr. Clarke had expressed his belief that by this time the firm would be manufacturing.

Tannery Beats Town Team In Local League Opener

BOND LEADS BATTERS WITH FOUR RUNS IN HIGH-SCORING GAME

Aurora's town softball league swung into action on Monday night with a tussle that saw the tanners nose out the towners in the final inning, to win 13-12.

Bone, who performed the pitching chores for the town team, seemed to have the better of it in the early stages of the game, but Lustie and Yake, tannery hurlers, came through in the final innings, while tannery batters went to town in the sixth.

Bonville scored for the town in the first inning and Yakes and Pattenden tallied for the town in the second, while the tanners' first score did not come until the last of the second, a solitary run by Ferguson.

In the third inning Gardiner, Pattenden and Bond gave the town a total of six runs, with R. White and West tallying for the tannery to give them a score of three runs.

The town team took three more runs in the fourth, when Honeey, Yakes and Bond scored, and things began to look black for the leather-makers, as the best they could do in their half was two runs, by Brown and Burtenshaw.

In the fifth, however, the towners went scoreless, while the tannery lads hauled in two more, from the batting of Lustie and W. White, and the bases were loaded for a time.

The town team got its total 12 runs when Pattenden, Bond and Mugford tallied in the sixth. The tannery, five runs behind, really went to work in their half of the sixth with runs by the White brothers, Lustie and Ferguson.

The towners went scoreless in the last inning. Lustie's homer

WILL CUT GRASS AND CHARGE PROPERTY

"What has been the custom concerning cutting grass in the town?" asked Deputy-Reeve L. K. Farr on Tuesday night. "I understand that when we cut grass on vacant lots, not just town lots, that the cost is charged against the property."

"Absolutely," said Reeve J. A. Knowles. "Mr. Dunham is weed inspector. Have him inspect and order town men to do the work."

that approval had to be obtained from the government because of the pure foods act.

"If the product is favorably reported, could you start production at once?" asked the mayor.

"Within two weeks," said Mr. Clarke.

"Is your process all right?" asked the mayor.

"Perfect," said Mr. Clarke. "We are the only people who can dry yeast without killing it." He intimated that the firm was "bucking" a very strong company already in the market with a different type of yeast.

The yeast manufactured in Aurora would be merchandised direct to the consumer from the factory, he stated. Possibilities of a demand in excess of 7,000,000 pounds annually existed in Canada alone, Mr. Clarke said.

The town had anticipated getting a going concern, the mayor said. "There is a disappointment that you are not maintaining a pay roll."

In the afternoon Dr. Lawson brought a message of special interest to the Sunday-school children on the subject, "Spoons and Looking Glasses." He had with him a number of spoons of different shapes and sizes but all conformed to the same pattern.

"Christians should be like those spoons," stated the speaker. "While we differ in shapes and sizes we should all conform to the one pattern of Jesus Christ."

In referring to the looking glass Dr. Lawson said that we should all take a good look at ourselves once in a while, not only to see if our hair is smooth and our tie straight, but to try and correct some of the faults that we may see in the glass.

"If our mouths are drooping at the corners or we see a scowl or frown on our faces we should try and erase them," he said. "I and my father are one. If we have seen me we have seen the Father also." He cautioned the parents to bring their children up in such a way that they would reflect the good training and guidance they had received.

For the evening service Dr. Lawson preached from the text, "No other foundation can any man lay but that which is laid." Mrs. Lawson was also present and favored the large congregation with a beautiful contralto solo, both afternoon and evening, accompanied by a ladies' instrumental trio.

The Women's Association met on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Harold Mortson. Mrs. Bickford of Maple was the guest speaker and gave a report of her trip to the New York world's fair.

EVERSLEY ILL HIMSELF, IGNORANT OF BROTHER'S DEATH

Norman Ferguson, of Maple Avenue Farm, was taken suddenly ill on Sunday night and was taken to a hospital in Toronto and operated on on Monday. While Mr. Ferguson was thus under doctor's care, his youngest brother, Sam, died in Orillia. Neither knew of the other's illness. Friends hope for a quick recovery for Mr. Ferguson.

In an article by Rev. John McNab in "The Challenge" he outlines the history of the Presbyterian church in Midland, where the general assembly has just held its sessions. The second minister to Midland was Rev. Robt. Scott, one of the Scott brothers who migrated from Scotland, and whose home was here in King, at Eversley. He was ordained in 1876. He was minister of Midland, Penatung, Wyebridge, Lafontaine, Vasey and Moonstone. These churches were only in the missionary stage. Rev. Robert Scott was minister there till 1881, when he removed to Zorra where he ministered till his health compelled his retirement. He was an uncle of Miss A. A. Ferguson, Eversley.

The minister in charge of the beautiful church at Midland, previous to the coming of Rev. A. C. Stewart, was Rev. Grover Stanley Lloyd, an Eversley son, born across from the old stone church, educated at Eversley school and has been a strong supporter of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. He is stationed now at Cornwall. Eversley is proud of these two sons, generations apart in the great work of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Goodwin, Buxton and Ontario, had an old time visit at "Scotts Wain Hn" one evening last week.

Great sympathy is expressed for the wife of Ray Dion, in his sudden, tragic death. He was well known, as he sprayed fruit trees, hux-sawed wood and other handy work for the community.

Mr. John Hovair was able to attend church service on Sunday night. This is the first time since the snow went away, first because

SCHOMBERG PUBLIC SCHOOLS HOLD MUSICAL FESTIVALS

Much interest has been manifested in the three musical festivals put on by the schools under the direction of E. Jackson, musical director of public schools. The festivals were held in Schomberg on June 9, Nobleton, June 14, and Kettleby, June 16. There were capacity audiences at all three. In fact, at the two latter ones, the halls were not large enough.

Besides the singing of choruses and part songs, there was ballet dancing by Mrs. F. Hunter's senior class.

Rev. F. V. Abbott acted as chairman for each occasion. Mrs. Hunter and Mr. Jackson are to be congratulated on the unequalled success of this, the first of the musical festivals in the public schools in this district.

The death occurred in the Memorial hospital, Alliston, on Tuesday, June 13, of Thomas Brown after a short illness. Mr. Brown's passing was the first break in a family of 12.

The funeral was held on Thursday from his late residence, Schomberg, to the United church for service, which was in the charge of Dr. Mercer. Interment took place in Schomberg cemetery.

Mr. Brown leaves his widow, formerly Mary Etta Lloyd, one son, Lloyd, and two daughters, Mrs. D. Sloan and Mrs. Wood, as well as seven sisters and four brothers.

The community extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Deanery of West York was held in All Saints' church, King, on Thursday, June 15. Service of holy communion was held at 10 a.m., with the rector, Rev. E. W. G. Worrall as celebrant. Rev. A. J. Forde of Roche's Point was the preacher.

Immediately following the service there was a business session with Mrs. Haines, Sharon, in charge. Reports were given by the branches present of the year's activities. A nice touch was added by the installation of a radio in the church so that all might hear the farewell speeches of their majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, from Halifax.

Following a box lunch prepared by the King, Maple and Oak Ridges branches, the afternoon session was held. Mrs. Britton Oster, a diocesan officer, gave a splendid talk of a general interest to W. A. members, with special emphasis on the extra-cent-a-day fund, which is the pin money of the W. A. Another very interesting address was given by Rev. Mr. Kaminsky of the Toronto Jewish Mission on his work among the Jews, who are a people he described as persecuted and hounded from country to country and "have not where to lay their heads."

Mrs. Haines was re-elected deanery officer by acclamation. The meeting closed with prayer. On Sunday, June 18, the parish of St. Michael (now of Schomberg) observed their 90th anniversary with special services at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. There was also early communion at 8 a.m. Rev. Blevin Atkinson, Cookstown, was the preacher in the morning, with Rev. E. W. G. Worrall, King, in the evening. There were good congregations at both services.

The celebration was continued on Wednesday when a garden party was held on the church grounds with the ladies of the W. A. in charge. A play, "Mama's Baby Boy," was presented by the Loydtown community club.

The parish has seen much change and various kinds of fortune in the almost century past, since the days when the first rector, Rev. Canon E. B. Oster, travelled by horseback many miles beyond the present parish limits.

The first church was built in Loydtown where the cemetery in which lie many pioneers of the district, is still a hallowed spot to many.

The new church was erected in 1925 in Schomberg, a little over a mile from the first site. The present rector is the Rev. F. V. Abbott.

Mrs. J. Brydon of Toronto was in town several days and attended the late Mr. Brown's funeral.

Mr. E. Lloyd and son, Mr. Ross Lloyd, of Oshawa, were also in town since Mr. Brown's passing.

Mrs. R. J. Hulst is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Freese in Forest, Ont.

of Edith's illness, then her own breakdown. Friends are all very glad to have her around again.

On Saturday afternoon a group enjoyed a picnic at Eaton Hall Farm. They were conveyed by buses.

On Thursday night a fair sized crowd assembled in Eversley Presbyterian church to hear "Dick, the Amateur Gardener," give his lecture on the beautiful side of agriculture. His talk, with a set of lantern slides, was very illuminating and the pictures beautiful. He then answered questions asked by the audience.

Mrs. Clara Shaw of near Schomberg helped very much by bringing some wonderful blooms from a series of each plant. The blooms were very large, much like the night blooming cereus. Mrs. Shaw also brought a huge glass bottle—capacity of five or more gallons. In this was some earth. She also had a basket of various varieties of foliage. Dick planted a bottle garden. This was quite a revelation to the audience.

Mrs. Shaw is also planning a desert garden with varieties of each plant, which she has just purchased from the greenhouse at Woodbridge. Samples of plant food and bug killer were distributed by drawing cards. The Eaton Hall trio, with Mr. Walsh as manager, contributed several selections before the service and at the close. It was a worth-while evening.

Era printing is neat.

nourished family, sent a child to York county hospital and provided needed drugs, filled 32 Christmas baskets for 272 children.

Thanking the club for co-operation, Mr. Eves made special mention of the assistance given by Mrs. Alex. Georgas.

A toast to the ladies by John Macnab was replied to by Mrs. Alex. Eves.

Entertainment by Rex Stacombe, Toronto magician, was excellent.

Miss Gwendolyn Lambert, gifted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lambert, sang three numbers to the great enjoyment of the company. She was accompanied by Mrs. C. R. Boulding, Aurora.

Deputy-District Governor Arthur Pugh, Barrie, presented 100 per cent attendance badges to the following members: Dr. J. W. Bartholomew, R. L. Boag, W. L. Bosworth, Frank Bowser, W. M. Cockburn, Frank Courtney, T. F. Doyle, W. H. Eves, Alex. Eves, R. Ewing, W. J. Geor, Alex. Georgas, H. E. Gilroy, Andrew Helsh, H. E. Lambert (14th year), Jack Luck, F. A. Lundy, W. C. Lundy, J. J. McCaffrey, R. C. Morrison, Joe Smith, Fred Thompson, Dr. C. E. VanderVoort, C. G. Wainman (14th year), Wm. White.

Dr. F. M. Deans, Oakville, who as a district governor this year visited 40 clubs, installed the new officers: president, Jack Luck; vice-president, Dr. J. G. Cock; 2nd vice-pres., James Law; secretary, H. E. Gilroy; treasurer, Frank Courtney; Tallwater, W. M. Cockburn; John Tanner, A. N. Belugin; directors, G. L. Manning, H. E. Lambert, T. F. Doyle, R. L. Pritchard.

Dr. Deans paid tribute to the contributions made to the Lions work in the province by H. E. Lambert, Frank Courtney and Dr. C. E. VanderVoort.

As incoming deputy district governor, W. L. Bosworth spoke briefly. Frank Craig, retiring president of the Barrie club, brought greetings from Barrie.

"It is a great honor to be elected president of such a wonderful organization as the Newmarket Lions club," said President-elect Jack Luck. "There are few small towns the size of Newmarket that have such a large club. Sixty members in a town of 4,000 is, I think, a wonderful showing. If we work together, there is nothing we can't put over."

"In addition to the work outlined by Mr. Eves tonight, there is one girl who has been in the hospital for three weeks and will be there for three more," continued Mr. Luck. "Another girl will go down this week. One leg is shorter than the other as a result of paralysis as a result of an operation she will grow up quite normal. That is the work I am interested in."

"With your co-operation we will have the greatest year yet. There is a great job for a Lions club to do to keep some out of our town. The royal tour was wonderfully arranged to promote unity."

Hot Hot!

The doctor's five-year-old answered the door. "Is the doctor in?" inquired the caller.

"No, sir."

"Have you any idea when he will be back?"

"I don't know, sir—he went out on an eternity case."

CHICKEN BLOOD

to questions. "That was Confederation year. Our common school had a picnic upon the hill where Newmarket cemetery now is. Robert Alexander was the teacher of the district school, where Alexander Muir school is now. Alexander Muir followed Robert Alexander, and I finished school with him."

"Robert Alexander's assistant was Miss Fraser, who taught up to the second book."

"The reeve was either Alfred Boulbee or Donald Sutherland, who followed him. I fancy Erastus Jackson followed shortly after Sutherland. Jackson arrived here in 1853 with the first train into Newmarket."

"Along in the early seventies there was an election for reeve. The two candidates were Nelson Gorham, who had the woolen mills, and Samuel Lukes, who had the mill at the north end which Robinson & Weeks had recently. The voting was open in the Mechanics' hall, where the Oddfellows hall now is. The hall was made over."

"At 5 o'clock there was a tie, and E. P. Irwin, village clerk, who owned and resided on what is now Pickering College farm, gave the casting-vote to his friend, Gorham."

"They used to fight for the reeve ship then like they do now for parliament."

"Mr. Irwin's salary in the sixties was $59 a year as clerk and treasurer and $1 for selecting jurors."

"In 1867 or 1868 the 7th Hussars cricket team and band played here. Alfred Boulbee bowled for Newmarket. Lem Atkinson, the jeweller, was one of the best batsmen north of Toronto. The Newmarket team was one of the best."

"Lacrosse replaced cricket about the eighties."

"The voters would crowd around," Mr. Hartly said in reply to a question concerning the open voting. "Those who came last would have to be carried in over the heads of the crowd. Some would promise both parties, but they wouldn't be able to satisfy both with open voting."

"About 1865 Dr. Hunter was running for reeve. He lived where Bert Green, the painter, now lives. He was running for reeve and he was supposed to have staggered home, blood on his face, after having been assaulted by his opponents. Sympathy elected him. Some people were even arrested on a charge of assault and taken to Toronto. Afterwards it leaked out that it was a hoax, and that his face had been sprinkled with chicken blood. He subsequently moved away to a farm in Whitechurch."

"Reeves never stayed very long until Jackson got in. He was a great authority on municipal law. He must have been reeve for ten years at a stretch, maybe longer."

"He was disappointed in an effort to get the Liberal nomination for the provincial house in 1874. The McMaster family, whose store where W. J. Patterson's home now is was the biggest between Toronto and Barrie, did not like Jackson, and put forward a young chap, Dr. Widdifield. Widdifield got the nomination and Jackson ran as an independent. Widdifield was elected and was the youngest member of the house."

"He had two or three terms and then was appointed sheriff of the county. E. J. Davis was the next to win the Liberal nomination. Dr. Widdifield brought in Thomas Radcliffe to establish the North York Reformer. Widdifield built the Imperial Bank building and the Reformer was in the office where Osborne's plumbing shop now is. When Widdifield went out of politics, the Reformer gradually died out. Subsequently the late Herbert Binns, a brother of G. A. Binns, started a small paper, but it didn't take any part politically. (Geo. Binns, father of G. A. Binns, earlier had started a Conservative newspaper, the Courier, which he sold to George Fox, but continued in the stationery and job printing business. The Courier became Radcliffe's North York Reformer.)"

"J. D. McKay started the Express-Herald as a real Conservative paper."

KILLED LAST TUESDAY, WAS BURIED FRIDAY

Falling from a barn on which he was working, Raymond Arthur Dion of King, was instantly killed a week ago Tuesday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Dion, King, R.R. 1. He attended the Gospel Tabernacle.

Besides his widow, there survive his mother, Mrs. D. Dion, one sister, Evelyn, (Mrs. Wheeler), Newmarket, and three brothers, Leonard, Norman and Wilfred.

Interment was made in Kettleby cemetery.

Well, Well!

There had been a wordy falling-out between Mrs. Halloran and Mrs. Donohue. There had been words; in fact, more, there had been language. Mrs. Halloran had gone to church early in the morning, had fulfilled the duties of her religion and was returning primly home when Mrs. Donohue spied her and, still smouldering with volcanic fire, sent a broadside of lava at Mrs. Halloran.

The latter heard, flushed, opened her lips—and then suddenly checked herself. After a moment she spoke:

"Mrs. Donohue, I've just been to church and I'm in a state of grace. But, please Havin, the next time I meet yez I won't be—and thin I'll tell yez what I think of yez!"

FAMILY REUNION WILL BE HELD AT CLAREMONT

One of the biggest family reunions will be held in the park at Claremont, July 1, and is widely known as the Middleton clan picnic, which is expected to reach the 500 mark this year in attendance.

In previous years it has been held in Orillia as most central, but owing to Pickering township being the starting place of the first settlers who came from the British Isles some 150 years ago, it was decided to hold it at Claremont for this year. Plans for sports and addresses are under way, with prizes, and anyone connected with the Middleton name needs no invitation, but is urged to come and bring their basket.

CITY UNEMPLOYED
WORRY MINISTERS

"What will they live on while the conference is being called?"
asked Rev. Ben Spence at the annual meeting of the Toronto Centre North presbytery of the United Church of Canada held in Trinity United church on Tuesday.

Rev. C. E. Silcox, president of the Christian Council of Canada, was requested by resolution to call a general conference on the problem of the single unemployed.

"We will have to feed them in the meantime," he said. "Feeding the men must be undertaken," he said, "not as a solution of the problem, but to keep them alive while bringing the problem to the attention of the federal government."

Rev. D. A. MacLennan of Timothy Eaton Memorial church raised the question of what help should be given to the single unemployed in Toronto.

Mr. Silcox described conditions in the city. He said that there was no provision at all for unemployed under 18 years of age.

He spoke with emotion of 50 or 60 men lying in a park in pouring rain with only newspapers to cover them.

"They would only be at our back doors," said the chairman,
Rev. Dr. E. J. Thompson, Aurora, when the suggestion was made that these men should be placed on farms. The farmers wouldn't know what to do with them, Dr.
Thompson said.

Entertainment of supernum-erated ministers, missionaries, their wives and widows was a highlight of the meeting. Rev. Dr.
Willard Brewing of St. George's United church proposed a toast to these guests of honor at the luncheon served by Trinity W.A. to 135 visitors. Rev. W. N.
Chandler, Toronto, replied.

Rev. Dr. Trevor Davies, retired pastor of Timothy Eaton Memorial church, gave an inspirational address at the luncheon.

The excellence of Trinity's junior choir, under the leadership of Hiltyd Harris, aroused universal comment among the visitors. The choir sang three selections for the devotional service in the morning.

Three members of the choir,
Ronald Eves, voice, June Hill, voice, and Eileen Jackson, piano, gave delightful solos during the luncheon.

Officers were elected as follows: chairman, Rev. W. H.
Sedgwick, Westminster Central;
Wallace Mans, Toronto, treasurer; L. A. Neelands, Toronto, chairman business committee;
Rev. H. J. MacKay, Leaside
United, secretary.

LOCAL BRANCH ATTENDS DEANERY CONFERENCE

roll, when the recording secretary of each branch gave a short report of the work accomplished by their branch in the past year. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. T.
C. Watson, Newmarket, who is retiring from her office as deanery secretary-treasurer, which she has held for a good many years, for her long term of office and her efficient work during all those years. Mrs. Haines was again unanimously chosen as deanery officer.

Through the kindness of one of the members of the congregation, who installed his radio in the church for the occasion, the ladies were enabled to hear the farewell speeches of their majesties from Halifax. The clergy, who were holding a deanery meeting, joined in to hear the broadcast, after which everyone enjoyed lunch on the church lawn.

At the afternoon session the speakers were Mrs. Britten Oster, and Rev. M. Kantusky of the Toronto Jewish Mission. Next year the conference will be held at St.

RUTH DAVIDSON IS BRIDE OF F. H. GORE

A quiet wedding was solemnized in All Saints' Anglican church, Toronto, on June 10, when Ruth Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Davidson of Mount Albert, became the bride of Frank H. Gore, son of Mrs. W. H. Gore and the late Mr. Gore of Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Murphy officiated, with the church organist playing softly during the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Allan A. Lock, wore a gown of shell pink chiffon, with matching accessories, her shoulder-length veil falling from a coronet of pleated tulle, and carrying an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses.

Hilda G. Davidson, her sister's only attendant, wore aquamarine blue chiffon, with matching accessories, and flower head dress of blue, with tulle streamers and carrying an arm bouquet of red roses.

Roy Gore was his brother's best man. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Marie Draper Lyons sang very sweetly, "Oh Perfect Love."

A reception was held at "Gray Gables," where the bride's mother received in blue triple sheer, with black accessories, and wearing a corsage of American beauty roses.

The bride travelled in a suit of regina blue wool, with wine accessories. The couple are motoring to Montreal and Quebec and on their return will reside in Toronto.

CAN'T REMEMBER WHY SO STOP DOING IT

Origin of an annual line rate of $9 charged against the York county House of Refuge, Yonge St., has been lost in the mists of antiquity, Councillor A. D. Evans explained to the town council on Tuesday evening.

The question was raised by a letter from the county. Mr. Evans recommended that the charge be discontinued.

thanked Mr. Haxby and Dr. Muckle. Miss Ethel O'Leary, the second member of the staff, also greeted Mr. Haxby.

Mr. Haxby explained to The Era how a photograph of his painting had gone to Buckingham palace for criticism and had then been revised in certain details. Even yet there was one slight correction to make, as the result of additional information about the king's uniform, which would make the original slightly different from the prints. Mr. Haxby said that the Daily Star reproduction was much superior to the Weekly Star reproduction.

FRIENDS YEARLY MEETING

It seems amid the stillness Of my home alone today I ascend the mount of vision And see, though far away, A scene well fraught with gladness And peacefulness sublime, It is the Quakers, gathering At yearly meeting time.

I know the sweets of fellowship In silent worship found, And how the dew of heaven falls Beneath the gospel's sound; I know how near that heaven seems

While someone kneels in prayer, Oh, little wonder that my soul Grows restless to be there, Ephraim Robeson, Athens, Ont.

(Sent to The Era by Mayor J. M. Walton, Aurora.)

IT'S AN ILL WIND THAT BLOWS NO GOOD

The town's equalized assessment for county purposes is down $14,500 this year, Reeve F. A. Lundy informed the town council on Tuesday evening.

This would mean a small reduction in the town's county levy, Mr. Lundy said. In addition, the county rate is down two mills, Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale added.

A year ago Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd complained because the town's assessment was down when, he said, it should have been up. That started a municipal feud which did not end until the election.

The county equalized assessment is based on the town's assessment of the previous year.

COUNCIL CRITICIZES OILING OF ROADS

The town council made its annual vote of $600 to York county hospital on Tuesday evening, on the motion of Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale.

Reeve F. A. Lundy explained that the council had agreed to pay the hospital this amount annually in return for an agreement by the town medical men to care for indigent patients in the hospital without charge, at the time of the building of the hospital.

An argument as to why Newmarket's street oiling was not satisfactory this year remained unsettled. The Bituminous Spraying Co., which did the job, was unable to have a representative present. N. L. Matthews, K. C., clerk and solicitor, said that the company representative would attend the next council meeting.
